

Application criteria from international candidates

(for those NOT residing in Australia or New Zealand)

Applications from international candidates for categories of membership of the Cardiac Society of Australia and New Zealand (CSANZ) are welcomed for those whose interest is primarily in the field of cardiovascular medicine or cardiothoracic surgery and will be considered if they are consistent or analogous with those criteria in the CSANZ Constitution.

Applications from cardiologists or cardiothoracic surgeons will generally be considered for Associate Membership of CSANZ. If an applicant for Associate Membership does NOT live in Australia or New Zealand, the applicant must provide an additional two written references from individuals to whom the applicant is personally known. The referees providing the written references do not have to be Members of the CSANZ.

Scientists, researchers, cardiovascular nurses and technicians will usually be considered for the category of Affiliate Membership. If an applicant for Affiliate Membership does NOT live in Australia or New Zealand, the applicant must provide an additional two written references from individuals to whom the applicant is personally known. The referees providing the written references do not have to be Members of the CSANZ.

Fellowship (FCSANZ) of CSANZ will be considered for applicants with an established record over time of clinical or research excellence, education, teaching and leadership, both locally and internationally.

Clause 6.2 a) of the Constitution states: Fellows of The Society must maintain continuing financial membership. Fellows of The Society must demonstrate continuing commitment to the advancement of education and research in cardiovascular disease, eg through participation in an accredited continuing education programme, publication of research papers or similar activities. Fellows of the Cardiac Society of Australia and New Zealand shall have the right to use the post-nominal identification FCSANZ.

International members in any category do not have the right to vote at the CSANZ AGM.
